New York reporter Samuel Cuffee is used to a life of news articles and deadlines, but when he tells his boss about his own family story, his need for information becomes much more personal. Setting out on a journey for answers regarding his past and his father who has been murdered, he ends up at the farm run by his uncle, Charlie Cuffee.

An old haunt of his during the summer months of his childhood, it has been years since he last visited his uncle and aunt, and this visit proves to be the most thought-provoking of all. In order to learn about the life of his father – anti-Slavery campaigner Andrew Cuffee – Sam must hear the stories regarding the rest of his family, including Charlie and Andy’s adoptive father, half-African and half-American Indian, Dr. David Cuffee.

Could his uncle have information that will stop the anger which is threatening to consume Sam? And in a place where he used to retreat as a child, will he be able to find the peace that has eluded him for so long?

A story of one man’s quest to get to the truth, Scars will take you on an emotional journey back to 1840s America where life was at the same time much simpler and much more complicated. With the world changing around him, will Sam get the answers he is so desperately searching for? And once he has his answers, will he finally be able to accept the truth?
